SEA CUBS. One hundred and seventy Cub Scouts and parents from Warren, Sheffield, Youngsville, Russell, and Jamestown crowd the rail of the City of Jamestown as it prepares to take off for the trip through the outlet and on up Lake Chautauqua where it was delivering a barge.

The trip was made Saturday as the guests of Captain Glen Solomson, through arrangements made by Charles Young, father of Chip Young, of Pack 47. Picnic lunches and bright weather contributed to the big day, and most of the boys took their turn on the third deck where the Captain steers the big boat through the channels. Aboard also was Al Bottine, president of the Chautauqua Lake Association.

UP IT GOES. The Beatty Junior High school auditorium center piece went together Wednesday morning. Work on the million dollar addition is moving along rapidly and soon the surrounding townships and Warren borough are going to have a very adequate junior high school with enlarged cafeteria, auditorium, band practice room, car port for busses, and added class room space. It actually means that many present pupils will have more space than ever, because a big share of them already attend the school.

Warren Paving Project Awarded P. V. Kebert

The Warren borough council last Thursday evening held a special meeting to decide what contractor would be awarded the paving and storm sewer projects planned for this year. It was agreed to use concrete at a cost of only 33 cents more per foot and the bid of Paul V. Kebert, Meadville, was accepted.

This bid totaled $83,071 and included the paving of Crescent Park from Hickory st. bridge to a point seventy feet west of the hospital maternity drive; Lexington from Irvine to Parker; Morrison from Fourth to Pennsylvania; Main from St. Clair to Crescent, and the laying of storm sewer on Madison ave. from Averill to Grant.

The problem of a manager for the airport was discussed and the committee presented Einer Johnson, of Falconer, as a prospect. Mr. Johnson was primarily interested in establishing a repair service and wanted the entire hangar. Inasmuch as only a half dozen ships are flying out of Warren and the hangar is being used to house thousands of dollars worth of heavy equipment most councilmen were hesitant about such an arrangement.

The consensus is that the airport should be maintained for landing purposes and perhaps arrangements could be made to provide fueling service, but unless Warren wants to spend several thousand dollars either for a new hangar or a huge garage for its equipment, the kind of proposition proposed by Mr. Johnson is not possible at this time.

Action on the proposal was postponed but it safely can be predicted that this arrangement has little chance of approval now.

WARREN GENERAL HOSPITAL OPEN HOUSE. Shown is Mrs. Fanny Smith speaking briefly to the group of Warren and Warren county people who gathered on the hospital lawn Saturday afternoon to commemorate the opening of the hospital's 2nd addition. Introduced by R. Pierson Eaton, Mrs. Smith gave a short history of the hospital's history and its importance to the community.

SMALL CROWD. Due mainly to the Moon murder trial going on at the courthouse, the group attending the hospital's open house was reduced to a loyal few.

VOTING IN WARREN TERMED LIGHT. The voting polls in Warren received scant attention this week. Mr. Harry W. Kein, left, is shown late Wednesday afternoon as the 80th voter in the first ward which has some 600 qualified ballot casters. The ladies on duty are, Mrs. Pearl Graham, Miss Matilda Steinhoff, Mrs. Clara Driscoll, and Mrs. Hazel Taylor.

What Election?

Apparently very few people knew there was a primary election this week, and those who may have heard about it certainly didn't care. State Senator L. E. Chapman led the Republican voting with 2393. Assemblyman Allen Gibson received 2376, and Scotty Calderwood, running for state committeeman, earned 2227. Congressman Leon H. Gavin got 2306.

In the state races where there was competition, Warren county Republicans gave Wood 1553, Stephenson, 679, and Chamberlin, 183 for governor. The Lt. Governor race was closer, Truscott getting 1243 to McMillen's 1013.

The organization got out the vote for its candidate, Dixon, in the internal affairs race, giving her 1511 to Livingood's 837. The GOP count for judges was 1456 for Bell, 1366 for Griffith, and 1345 for Woodside.

The Democrat count was equally as light, registering about ten percent of the eligible voters. Fred C. Barr, of Tidioute led the ticket's voting with 440 in his unopposed bid for congressional nomination. Lewis L. Crippen was next with 435 for his assembly nomination.

The county Democrats supported Pittsburgh's McClelland with 242 and gave Leader, the organization's choice, only 152. Mel Anderson, unopposed for state committeeman, received 370.

Poppy Days are coming up. The VFW sale will be held on the streets Friday and Saturday of this week. This money is used for the relief and rehabilitation of veterans and their dependents, and for helping in the support of the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Employment Declined in Warren county during the last sixty days, but only by the margin of one-half percent, or a total of 32. However, the number of people filing for jobless benefits during the last week in April was 540, less than the 605 of the same week two months ago, but far more than the 239 of the same week a year ago. The unemployment in Warren county now is estimated to be about 800.

Know A Pretty Girl? If you do she could become Miss America. All Miss America's start in contests in their own counties, and the Warren Jaycees are having such a contest as a part of their Fourth of July celebration.

In this issue is an entry blank. Talk that pretty girl into taking part. It can mean many awards, including scholarships. Five finalists will be chosen June 25, and the finals will be held the evening of July 5 as a part of the Fourth of July celebration.

The winner has all expenses paid to the state finals. Winning there the Jaycees will send her to the Miss America finals at no cost to her.

You can't lose. The Jaycees urge you to be a talent scout and to help them find Miss Warren County, who also may become Miss Pennsylvania, and even Miss America.

Taken To Warren General hospital last Sunday was Calvin Kelly, five, for treatment of abrasions of the head which he sustained while being struck by a car driven by Albert L. Gaul, of Bradford, Pa. Young Kelly received the wounds while playing near his home at 810 Penna. ave., E., Warren.

An Automobile Driven by Keith C. McIntosh, Warren R. D. 3, collided with a truck last Saturday morning in front of the Ford garage parking lot, causing damages totaling $275. No one was injured. The truck was owned by Stanley Tomski of Brookville, Pa.

The Lander Elementary Spring program, a musical fantasy, under the direction of Mrs. June Anderson will be held at the Lander community house Friday, May 21, at eight p. m.

Injured Last Saturday at the FN crossing just outside of Warren was Donald J. Shrum of New Kensington when his car left the highway and overturned. Damages came to about $1000 and Shrum was taken to Warren General hospital and treated for abrasions of the ear, a broken wrist and other injuries.

Archie Phillips of Russell, who was driving toward Warren at the time, slowed his car to look at the Shrum car, when Oscar W. Johnson of Youngsville slammed into the back of his car. Damages came to $300.

WE INVITE YOU

You are invited to make full use of the Community Calendar which appears in this issue. We will attempt to publish this calendar every week and to keep it up to date for your convenience. THE WINNER. Clyde Smith, of Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Smith, and now attending Dartmouth, pleased both the judges and the public with his entries in the Woman's Club art talent recognition show. He led the paintings and drawing division with a blue ribbon and an honorable mention. And a third painting was voted best of show by the visitors. Clyde hopes to specialize in art after finishing his Dartmouth liberal arts course.

SELECT BOYS FOR JUNIOR CAMP

Right now, member organizations of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs are in the process of selecting teen-age boys to attend the Junior Conservation Camp this summer. Sponsoring clubs pay the expenses of the boys they send, and furnish transportation to and from the camp. Each of the four camp sessions will be a 13-day duration. The camp, being sponsored by the eight divisions of the Federation, indicates these organized outdoorsmen are aware of the need and value of over-all conservation knowledge. The Federation sponsored the camp with the hope it would have many carry-over values in teaching our youth about conservation and later influencing the thinking of adults in the respective communities.

The camp is intended for high school sophomore boys who are leaders in their schools and interested in furthering their conservation education. At the camp they learn: the wise use of our natural resources; to profit from a rich camping experience; preparatory steps toward becoming conservation leaders and therefore of service in home communities; to live, work and play together; and to develop interests in outdoor activities.

Each camp schedule is crowded with lessons in conservation, interspersed with recreation periods and educational field trips. Good discipline is maintained without apparent lessening of the boys' enjoyment. Attendees are housed at the Forestry Camp of The Pennsylvania State University. This rustic unit is located 15 miles southwest of the town of State College. The boys' camp is under the experienced leadership of C. W. Stoddart, Jr., of The Pennsylvania State University, and his corps of capable aides.

Representatives from the University and state and national conservation agencies are the teachers. In large part, the outdoors is the classroom. Subjects taught at the camp are varied, among which are: stream pollution and purification; reforestation and forest management; soil erosion and land capabilities; game food and cover; fish hatchery problems; mineral resources; and others. The youth groups also learn woodcraft, survival, the proper use of firearms, fly and bait casting, forest fire control, and other matters dealing with the outdoors.

The idea for the camp was born in 1948 in a meeting of George Harvey and C. W. Stoddart, Jr., with Dr. Logan J. Bennett. At that time Dr. Bennett was Leader of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit. The present Executive Director of the Game Commission suggested a week's camp devoted to conservation activities, and Mr. Harvey and Mr. Stoddart worked out a tentative outline for a camp schedule. This idea was presented to and later endorsed by representatives of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and the institution then known as The Pennsylvania State College.

When purposes and aims are considered, it is difficult to imagine how the Sportsmen's Federation and the University could jointly devise and maintain a more worthy project than the Junior Conservation Camp.

DUCKLINGS REARED FOR RELEASE

The Game Commission's duck rearing program is again in operation at State Game Land No. 213, in Crawford County.

The first duckling release of 1954 was made early this month. Several thousands of mallard ducks will be raised and liberated in out-of-the-way ponds and marshes in Pennsylvania between now and mid-summer.

Each bird will be leg banded before it is given its freedom. Information gathered from reported bands is valuable to the Commission and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in administering waterfowl programs. Experience in past has shown that many a duck "planted" on Pennsylvania waters returned to its release vicinity the following spring. This blue print behavior attests that survivors of fall and spring migrations improve duck hunters' sport in the Keystone State.

SPRING RABBIT SHOW AT YOUNGSVILLE'S ISLAND PARK

The Annual Spring show of the Warren County Domestic Rabbit Breeders Association was held Friday through Sunday of last week on Island Park in Youngsville. A total of 212 entries vied for special honors traveling to the show from such distant places as Youngstown, Cleveland, Painesville and Mentor of Ohio; Buffalo, Olean and Little Valley in New York, as

SCOUTS INSURE HUNTING AND FISHING

In the opinion of Game Protector Arthur T. Biondi, some grown-ups who hunt and fish in Mercer County should feel ashamed.

Here he tells why. "The Boy Scouts of this section built stiles so that fishermen could cross farmers' fences without breaking them down. At all parking areas and bridges the Scouts are putting out 50-gallon drums for garbage and trash left by hunters and fishermen. The Scouts empty all such drums and clean up cans, bottles or what have you the I-don't-care outdoorsmen neglect to put in the containers.

"It's getting pretty bad when boys have to follow men around and clean up after them," says Biondi. "But the Scouts have one thing in mind: they want a place for themselves and their kids to hunt and fish when they grow up."

BOLD BEDFORD COUNTY DEER CHASE DOGS

Fish Warden William McIlroy, of Bedford County, reported this news in the deer-bites-dog category to Game Protector John J. Troutman recently.

McIlroy investigated a report a pack of dogs were molesting several deer in a field close to the town of Bedford. Going there he saw this: the deer, apparently unafraid of their sometimes enemies, seemed to play with them. The dogs would chase the deer awhile, then the deer would turn about and chase the dogs. Finally, the deer seemed to become bored with it all and lay down for a rest. The dogs, tired too, left the field, McIlroy said.

well as Pittsburgh and Bradford in Pennsylvania.

A large crowd of visitors enjoyed the display of animals and the judging by Ed Beamer, well known rabbit authority. Youngsville and county merchants cooperated by advertising in the show manual prepared for the occasion. The Youngsville Farm Service Store, managed by John W. Carr, furnished the feed for the rabbits.

CHARACTER STUDY. The public thought this was the best of show. As usual they failed to agree with the judges, but it made little difference to Clyde Smith who did the oil painting. ## Warren Jaycees Plan Baseball Excursion

Boys between the ages of 11 and 15 can see some big league baseball at no cost next July 31 or August 7 if they register with the Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce which will be in charge of the project. Details of the registration have not been completed and will be announced later.

Meanwhile, anyone carrying liability insurance and interested in driving three or more boys to Cleveland, may contact Richard Scalise by calling Warren 763-R. The drivers and counselors also will get into the game free.

If they go on July 31 they will see Washington play. An August 7 it will be Philadelphia. The first date is preferred.

The Jaycees also voted to cooperate with the Warren Boys Choir in its effort to raise money for expected concert trips. The Jaycees will help raise money through the sale of ads for the choir's spring concert programs.

The Warren group also is considering the organization of an intercity softball league. Corry, Titusville, Jamestown, and Bradford are potential entries.

Following a discussion of the Warren airport problem, the Warren chapter resolved to go on record as supporting continued operation of the Warren airport with the best available personnel that the Warren borough council can obtain for this purpose.

The Jaycees heard a summary of the National Recreation Association's report on plans for War Memorial field, and final details of the inaugural dinner dance, set for Saturday night, were reported. They also learned that the cleanup drive yielded $95 worth of scrap.

Last night's meeting was the final session for the administration of Al Blair and the chapter gave him a rising expression of appreciation for his successful term.

Washington And You

By Margaret Chase Smith

WASHINGTON. .. I have been sorely disappointed in the position of Attorney General Brownell in opposing my bill to outlaw the Communist party. He must have been extremely reluctant to do so and he must have seen considerable merit in my proposal against the Communist party, for it took him over a year ~ 15 1-2 months to be exact ~ to make an unfavorable report on my bill to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

But, in spite of this disappointment, I do want to commend Attorney General Brownell on recent action he has taken to combat the communistic subversion here at home. He has taken a very good step in creating a new division in the Justice Department to handle internal security. That new division will concentrate on internal security prosecutions.

There have been indications that the Department of Justice has not kept pace on prosecutions with the pace set by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on investigations. The FBI has been piling up the evidence faster than Justice has been acting on that evidence. And since time is of the essence in apprehending and convicting spies against our government, it is imperative that the Justice Department speed up action on the backlog of subversion cases.

The logic of this step is obvious. It simply doesn't do much good to investigate and apprehend if you don't prosecute, enforce and imprison. Prompt prosecution must go hand-in-hand with effective investigation just as much as action must go hand-in-hand with planning.

For inordinate delay in these cases in itself is a threat to the security of our country. It aids the Communists. Delay aids the guilty ~ it penalizes the innocent. So that the over-all result of delay is frustration of justice.

During the delay key prosecution witnesses may die or disappear. Time may dull their memories and weaken the evidence against the subversives, thus lessening the chance of convicting them and putting them behind bars.

Up until the time that Attorney General Brownell set up this new division, the internal security prosecutions were being handled by the criminal division of the Department of Justice. It had enough work in other fields of criminality to keep it busy. And this is not the first time that the criminal division has had some criminal prosecutions taken away from it. For example, there are the criminal prosecutions handled by the anti-trust division. Another example is the criminal prosecutions handled by the tax division.

Now surely internal security prosecutions rate a separate division just as much as do anti-trust prosecutions and tax prosecutions. It would not seem necessary to defend the action of the Attorney General in setting up this new internal security division. But there are always criticisms that arise whenever a new bureau, agency, department, division or section is set up in government. The cry of bureaucracy comes forth.

Surely, this time hardly anyone will raise the cry of bureaucracy against the creation of a new division designed to protect the internal security of our country.

Coal will fight back. With gas available to most homes and with modern furnaces and insulation there are few people who don't prefer this clean and economical heat. This has closed many coal mines.

But two things may combine to change this. One is the obvious fact that those who own coal want to sell it, and if they can utilize modern science to make the fuel cheaper and cleaner there will be those who will welcome it as fuel. The other is the policy of the current administration which leans toward big business and is appointing commissioners of various kinds who will lift restrictions that have kept gas prices down.

The combination of cheaper and cleaner coal, and more costly gas could be the next step in the battle to keep warm that somehow inevitably ends up by costing the homeowner more. He can't seem to win.

An example of what is being done to make coal more attractive is a device which takes ashes out of the house with no effort on the part of the homeowner. It applies to hard coal and makes such heat fully automatic from its arrival in the cellar to the visit by the disposal company which finds the ashes in a can buried in the ground outside the house.

The ashes are taken to the can through sealed dust-proof tubes, on the same principle as a vacuum cleaner and can be used with either an automatic or a hand-fired anthracite heating system. For most gas users it will take a mighty clean coal, a much lower price, and a load of salesmanship to convert gas burners, but there is no denying the quality of coal heat if a way can be found to use it without straining the bread and butter man's muscles and with clean curtains for the dirt conscious lady of the mansion.

Though the sale of U. S. savings bonds continued to top that of a year ago, the April figures in Pennsylvania revealed Warren county not to be keeping pace with this trend. While Pennsylvania sales were up 14 percent over April of 1953, and the national average was an increase of 11 percent, Warren county slumped from a total of $113,530 worth of bonds last April to $99,775 for this spring's month of showers. Harry W. Conarro is the county chairman.

"Everything In Music"

Song, Food, Companionship,.... those over sixty who organized the Golden Age Club at its first meeting Tuesday in the Warren YWCA, found all of these and made plans for more. Most of those present voted to meet twice a month and once organized there is a wide range of activities with which they can have fun.

Some of those present admitted it was their first social activity in a long time. Others not so unfortunate gained an equal amount of pleasure in the companionship which they helped provide.

Promising Future..... The first meeting of the Golden Age Club amazed the sponsors with a turnout of over one hundred. This is an activity for people who have topped their sixtieth birthday, and it has proved very popular in many communities.

The Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary did a big share of the groundwork, in cooperation with the Civic Recreation committee. They were well repaid by the very successful result.

Teens To Slumber?..... The Warren high school Y-Teens will hold their annual slumber party Friday night, May 21 at 7:30 p. m. at the YWCA. The evening will be filled with dancing, eating, and everything but slumbering.

Amaranth dinner..... A dinner will be held by the Amaranth, Tuesday, May 25 at the YWCA. Dining time is 6 p. m.

Historical Society..... Members of the Historical Society will gather at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, May 26. The meeting will be held at the YWCA.

Rotary..... Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Searle will be the guest speakers at the Monday meeting of the Warren Rotary May 24 at the YWCA. Mr. Searle is an exchange teacher from Australia who will be leaving Warren soon, after having spent a year here teaching at the Warren high school.

Dinner-Dance Club..... The Dinner-Dance Club will meet for dinner Saturday, May 29 at 6:30 p. m. at the YWCA. A Barber Shop chorus will provide the program for the night.

Community Calendar

BEST OF SHOW

It was a grand slam for Clyde Smith, who successfully pleased both the public and the judges in the recent art talent recognition show of the Warren Woman's Club. The Warren boy, who now is attending Dartmouth, won the best of show with a portrait oil which he had named "Character Study".

As usual the public didn't agree with the judges who didn't place this painting in the honorable mention group. In that group Clyde also had a painting, "The First-niter".

These honors were in addition to his "Daisies", an oil painting which the judges picked for the blue ribbon. It was very much a Clyde Smith show, which should be encouraging to a young man who is majoring in art and certainly is planning to make it a major part of his future.

You can see all of the winners by visiting the Warren Public Library Wetmore gallery this week.

* * **Plays and Opera

Those who are interested in the plays and operas, or both, that are presented each summer at Chautauqua might like to clip out this item for future reference. It includes the names and dates of the attractions scheduled.

The Chautauqua Repertory Theatre again will draw its talent from the Cleveland Play House and will open July 7, a Wednesday evening, with Christopher Fry's "The Lady Is Not For Burning".

On July 14 and 17 the group will do "Home at Seven" by Robert C. Sherriff, and on July 2 and 4 it will be William Inge's "Come Back Little Sheba". The Thurber-Nugent "Male Animal" will be seen July 29 and 31.

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" is the August 5 and 7 feature, and the final play will be "Stalag 17", by Bevan and Trcinski, August 12.

The opera again will be in English for this 26th season and will open with "The Mikado" on July 17. This is a Chautauqua favorite and is being offered because of popular request.

Alfredo Valenti will be in his 26th season as artistic director of the Chautauqua Opera Association and will have Alberto Bimboni and Edward Murphy sharing the conducting.

Other operas and their dates include "Aida", July 23 and 26; "The Magic Flute", July 30 and August 2; "Tosca", August 6 and 9; "Orpheus", August 13 and 16, and the season concludes August 20 and 23 with "La Cenerentola" (Cinderella). The Magic Flute and La Cenerentola will be new to Norton Hall.

Short Waves

Afterthought. In our comparison of the morning programs, Today and The Morning Show, last week we rated their news coverage on a par. But we believe television news coverage calls for a picture of the news and not lengthy shots of men mouthing it, already done by radio. In this respect we believe The Morning Show has an edge.

Speaking of Leaders. At last look Jack Benny edges Amos and Andy in the radio ratings. Bing Crosby is next and then comes Lux Radio Theatre. Our Miss Brooks is fifth. On TV it is I Love Lucy leading the weekly shows by a thin edge over Dragnet. Then come You Bet Your Life, Godfrey's Talent Scouts, Jackie Gleason, and Milton Berle in that order.

And it is an uncomplimentary commentary on audience intelligence that is inspired by the fact that Howdy Doody ties Perry Como for leadership in the multi-weekly shows, though neither has a very high rating and wouldn't place in the top twenty of the overall comparisons.

The Goldbergs Return to TV May 30

The Goldbergs, long a favorite of radio listeners and seen briefly on television as a summer show, will return to WBEN-TV Sunday afternoons at 2 o'clock starting May 30. Gertrude Berg scripts the popular family comedy and plays the leading role of Molly.

Jack Paar Show on WBEN-TV

The Jack Paar Show, starring the former WBEN announcer and master of ceremonies, has joined the CBS Television line-up of top-rated daytime programs on WBEN-TV. The New York-originated show is broadcast every Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

EXPLORATION INTO EDUCATION

Given any encouragement at all, the professors are going to turn out to be as thorough-going hams as the politicians. The profs, to give them their due, will probably be much better hams and infinitely more honest ones.

Latest exhibit in the thesis that the professors can handle themselves very well in front of a camera is WNBT's Saturday afternoon program "Princeton '54" produced jointly by NBC and Princeton University. Of course, I've never understood why anyone should be especially surprised by this. Lots of professors have been on stage (of sorts) just as long as Ed Wynn and have got just as many laughs. If you can handle a bunch of footplayers, you sure ought to be able to cope with a TV camera.

"Princeton '54" breaks new grounds on several counts. It doesn't cost much (less than $1,000 per program,) and it's aimed at the college level of intelligence. Yet, it's my guess that all sorts of people from pre-teenage kids to the old folks (whether educated or uneducated) will find these programs absorbing.

On the first one, Dr. Hadley Cantril, Princeton's famed psychologist, took us on a tour of some of the exhibits in his laboratory at Princeton of optical illusion. There were small models of rooms in which nothing is as it seems to be, where the eye is tricked in a dozen ways. Princeton students, Dr. Cantril said, try to throw tennis balls at a spot of light on the walls of these rooms and miss by miles. (At Yale, we used to play with balls outside of class hours but then they have their own way of doing things at Princeton).

Dr. Cantril, a tweedy, self-assured teacher, explained the psychology of optical assumption which makes us assume that walls are straight when they are not simply because we are used to them being that way. He went on to say that we operate "on a basis of probabilities and we try to make certainties of them," pointing out that this distressing psychological habit permeates far beyond optics into the realm of our deeper beliefs. It was a very instructive, if somewhat unnerving, exhibition of the limitations of our mind and eyesight and, at the same time, a fairly simple one.

On the second show, Professor Eric Rogers, a slightly maniac Englishman, raced around a laboratory explaining "Drops, Splashes and Atoms." Probably never have you seen a human being get so worked up over a drop of water. Professor Rogers lapsed into cuteness from time to time (named his droplets Bertram, Alfred and little Willie, for instance) but he was very entertaining, if sometimes obscure.

One thing the WNBT series has shown is that the technical end of TV is something the professors shouldn't worry about. Most educators, it has been learned, worry about camera angles and the photogenic angles of their lectures much more than the professionals in TV do. Keep it simple. Keep the emphasis on learning -- and the camera problems can be handled by any competent crew.

Princeton was not especially happy about getting into television in the first place but now that the series has started and done well the university has been quite enthusiastic about it. Originally scheduled for eight programs, the series has been extended to ten which will invade the fields of physics, psychology, music, chemistry, history, biology, art and literature — of which the last may be the most difficult.

* * *

In the field of literature, the only one undertaken so far was a very imaginative exploration into the various worlds of the future as predicted by such thinkers as William Morris in "News From Nowhere" (1891), H. G. Wells in "The World Set Free," Aldous

Huxley in "Brave New Worlds" and George Orwell in "1984."

MAIL BOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK. We learned this week by reading a bulletin issued by the post office that there were right and wrong ways of mounting a mail box. The right ways are embodied in the following statement: a mail box should be so mounted that the carrier can get your mail into it quickly, and efficiently. The wrong ways are found in the negative of this statement. Also, a mail box should have a good appearance. Our camera took a short drive in search of good and bad examples. Shown is how a box shouldn't be mounted. In the first place such a box might fall off on the head of a neighbor or friend and lead to embarrassing consequences. Secondly, the carrier, in order to leave mail, has to get out of his car, thus losing valuable time.

A GOOD EXAMPLE. This group is mounted well, the carrier can service the whole group without getting out of his car or having to pull up and stop again. He reaches them all from one position. The post office calls this, "proper spacing". Another thing: the posts on which the boxes are mounted are so designed as to be out of reach of snowplows. It has been said that everyone welcomes the man who brings our mail. Perhaps a gesture of thanks to him would be to "paint up and fix up," our mail box.

Warren Team In District Meet

Facing tough competition in the field and track events Saturday is a group of twenty-two thinclads from Warren high. They are going to Meadville for the District meet. Warren came second last year in the district behind the state champions, Erie Academy. The Erie boys will be favorites again, sporting such fine runners as the Baker boys and Jack Laraway. It will not be an easy task for the Dragons but they too have some fine runners who will not be taken easily.

Entering for Warren are Mike Shanshala, high hurdles, shot put; Don Mahaffey, 100, 220, 880 relay; John Powley, mile run; Dale Meddock, mile run; Carl Greco, 880 relay; Bill Dicello, 880 relay; Phil Stewart, 180 low hurdles, half mile relay; Dick Schuler, 440, mile relay; Bill Massa, 440, mile relay; Bruce Duell, 880; Ken Schuler, 880; John Cashman, mile relay; Jim Jordan, mile relay; Fahey Morley, pole vault; Jim Simonsen, pole vault; Willard Foley, discus; John Fisher, discus, javelin, high jump; Stan McClelland, javelin; Jeff Homan, broad jump; Dick Swanson, 100 dash; Dick Koebley, 220; and Jim Lopez, broad jump.

Accompanying the squad are the three managers, Jim Buchanan, Mel Peterson, and Bill Wehner, who deserve credit for taking care of the field and equipment during the season. Preliminary events will be run in the morning. The regular events are slated for the afternoon.

Youngsville is sending a group and has high hopes in the dashes with Dick Wood doing the running.

Warren Takes Two

Warren spanked its two opponents this week, winning over an improved Jamestown squad, 64-40, and trouncing a stubborn Meadville outfit, 65 1-2 to 52 1-2.

Two new Warren records were set against Jamestown, Phil Stewart doing it in the 180 low hurdles with 22.3 sec., and Junior Don Mahaffey streaking to the tape in 22.9 in the 220 dash.

Earning top places against Jamestown were Dick Schuler, 440 sprint in 56 sec.; Bruce Duell, 880 dash in 2.07.5 sec.; Jim Simonsen, pole vault in 9 ft., 9 in.; John Fisher, high jump in 5 ft., 4 3/4 in.; and half mile relay.

Finishing second were L. Kittner, 180 low hurdles; Carl Greco, 100 dash; John Powley, mile run; B. Massa, 440 dash; K. Schuler, 880 sprint; and Mike Shanshala, shot put.

Against Meadville the locals showed plenty of spirit in beating a well balanced squad. Don Mahaffey beat Meadville's speed boy Dick Butler in the 100 and 220 dashes. Warren captured seven first places and tied another. Taking top laurels were the 880 relay quartet made up of C. Greco, B. Dicello, P. Stewart, and D. Mahaffey. Bruce Duell won the 880 sprint in 2 min. 08.7 sec. Mike Shanshala took the shot put with 42 ft., 9 in.

The pole vault was tied by F. Morley and J. Simonsen, each reaching 10 ft., 6 in. Willard Foley topped the discus throwing with 129 ft.

Runner-up positions went to Dick Schuler, 880 dash, John Fisher, shot put, and Jeff Homan, broad jump.

Youngsville just about swept every event, winning easily over Lawrence Park, 114 1-2 to 12 1-2.

Best Golf fired at the Conewango Valley Country Club last Thursday was Tim Creal's 38 which took first place in the weekly tourney. Pete Julian was second with 39. The handicap winner was Homer Culbertson with 31. Joe Goblinger had 35, and tied at 37 were Bob Alexander and Sam Rasmussen.

This Thursday they play a better ball of four tournament, next week it will be low gross and low net. On Saturday, the Warren team will play host to Jamestown's twenty best swingers.

At The Hot Stove meeting this week schedules for the five leagues were released. The OBSERVER will print the coming games and asks all team handlers to bring results of all the contests so we can keep them for league standings. It was also announced by the Sunset league officers that a Hot Stove player cannot participate in the Sunset league this season. A total of twenty-five sponsors have paid the sixty dollars fee and there is need to sell more adult membership cards. The next meeting is on Tuesday, May 25, at the Trinity Memorial Church, beginning at seven o'clock.

QUICKIES

Still Giving a great boost to Slippery Rock's undefeated track team is Warren's Bud Terry. In a quadrangular meet in Meadville this week Terry placed second in the 100 and 220 dashes.

Posting singles and doubles victories in tennis was George Hesch as Gannon continued strong in the netting sport, beating Edinboro College, 7-2.

Gray-Y Track results showed Roald Schneider, a fifth grader, taking the most ribbons with four first places, a second, and a third. Rog Colvin, a fourth grader, took four events and placed second in another. Numerous other boys entered, with many taking home at least one ribbon.

Top Honors in the junior Y rifle tourney went to John Aldrich who fired a 48 out of a possible 50. Russell Rudolph came first in the beginners. Terry Reist was tops in the pro-marksmen, and Berlyn Seder first in the marksman.

A Sunset League meeting is set for Monday, at 7:30, in the Warren Y. Rosters and entry fees must be in to President Nick Creola.

North Warren's Marlin Rockwell baseball team opened its season with a 6-5 triumph over the Jamestown Furnishings. Sherman tangles with the Rockwells at the State Hospital diamond this Saturday, starting at 2:30.

McCarthy Fear Adams?

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. — Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens is supposed to be somewhat naive politically — and that very likely is so.

Nevertheless, the quiet-spoken, mild-mannered gentleman completely foiled some of the slickest political operators in the business, and the capital is chuckling about it. He did it when he stopped their attempt, directed by the veteran Senator Dirksen (R., Ill.), to cut short the current investigation before it got the whole story of Senator Joe McCarthy's assault upon the U. S. Army.

The story of Secretary Stevens' triumph is a fascinating one. It has some of the aspects of the clean-cut young man who routs the ruffians. It reflects credit on him, but hardly the same on some Republican leaders who were ready to sacrifice him cold-bloodedly in an effort to shut down the damaging spectacle or to appease Senator McCarthy.

At their own devious, ruthless political game, the politically-unskilled Secretary beat them by not trying to play politics, but by playing it straight. That is often the best way in politics, though seldom tried. The Army Secretary took his stand for getting the whole truth on the record in the public gaze, for putting all the other "principals" involved in the controversy through the same ordeal he had endured, and there he stood firmly along with his shrewd counsel, Joseph N. Welch, who has absolutely no fear of Joe McCarthy or anybody else, high or low.

Politicians frequently fail to assess properly the effect of their maneuvers upon the public. That happened with Senator Dirksen and his Republican associates on the committee, with a single exception.

At least Senator Mundt (R., S. D.), committee chairman, reacted as if he saw clearly. He acted as if he saw how the outside observer, the man in the street, would look upon the Dirksen proposal to have Senator McCarthy only on the stand after Secretary Stevens and shove the other witnesses into a closed session, or "sweep the dirt under the rug," as Democrats put it.

When Senator Mundt found that Secretary Stevens felt cutting short the hearings as Senator Dirksen proposed would be unfair, he cast the deciding vote against the Illinois Senator's motion. As of now, this seems the better political judgment.

So far as the course of events can be pieced together here, Secretary Stevens was acting on his own. That was the word from his superior, Secretary of Defense Wilson. Nor is there any indication that Mr. Stevens got any prompting or encouragement from the White House, strange as that might seem, other than the public word from President Eisenhower at a news conference a week previously reiterating the President's 100 percent support.

Obviously, Senator Dirksen also was operating on his own, though he had a cue from the President's publicly expressed desire that the investigation should be finished as early as possible; but acting, of course, on behalf of the party's Senate leadership.

What Senator Dirksen was doing was to Senator McCarthy's interest. The Illinois Senator has somewhat of a stake in his Wisconsin colleague. As chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee, Senator Dirksen still has expectations of using Senator McCarthy as a Republican campaigner this fall. The part of Senator Dirksen's proposal designed to please Senator McCarthy was that which would have prevented public testimony by John G. Adams, counsel to the Department of the Army, as well as public testimony by the Senator's two aides, Roy Cohn and Francis P. Carr.

Senator McCarthy is reported to fear Mr. Adams because he was the Army's direct liaison with the Senator and his aides and knows much more detail of the relationship between the Army and them than does Secretary Stevens. Mr. Adams's testimony already about Roy Cohn's threats and his abusive language gives a clue as to why Senator McCarthy would have preferred not to have him or Mr. Cohn testify in public. Also, the Senator is leery generally of cross-examination by the astute Mr. Welch.

DONALD A. SWANSON

Parke - Davis Promotes Former Ludlow Man

Donald A. Swanson, the son of Mrs. Adolph Swanson, Ludlow, has been promoted by the Parke, Davis and Company to the position of assistant manager of the hospital and biological sales department in Detroit. Between 1950 and 1952 he was a sales and medical service representative for Parke-Davis in Los Angeles, Cal., and since 1952 he has been the Los Angeles area hospital representative.

Only 30 years old, Mr. Swanson was born in Ludlow in 1924. He attended grade school there and was graduated from the Ludlow High School in 1942. He then enlisted in the U. S. Air Force, where he served three years. As soon as he was discharged, he entered the University of Michigan School of Pharmacy, from which he was graduated in June, 1949.

After graduation he went immediately to California and was employed by the Owl-Rexall Drug Company in Los Angeles until January, 1950, when he joined the firm of Parke-Davis.

Mr. Swanson has a brother, Ray, who lives in Mt. Jewett and teaches in the public schools in Kane. Another brother, Arthur, is a landscape architect in Forest Hills, N. Y., and a third brother, Roger, is an engineer for General Electric in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Swanson, his mother, expects him and his wife, whom he married last August, to come to Ludlow to visit her sometime this summer.

NEW EAGLE SCOUT. It didn't take Robert Lindberg, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Lindberg, 1410 Pennsylvania ave., E., long to earn his Eagle Scout rating. He became a Second Class Scout on April 2, 1952, and moved rapidly up the scale. On May 6 he made the Eagle. He is a member of Troop 2, with Gordon Hengst as temporary scoutmaster.

Robert also has received the American Legion Award, which is given each year to Eighth Grade students who rate high as citizens. This was received at last Friday's assembly. The other recipient was Katherine Downs.

OBSERVATIONS . . . .

Picture Ban Protested

Warren county now rates the attention of those who have taken action to eliminate restrictions on the taking of news pictures in court houses. The Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association has formally protested the ban on news pictures of the Moon case taken in the court house during court hours.

The protest refers to the Westmoreland County case where judges issued a similar order and the case was taken to the Federal District Court by the local paper and the Pittsburgh Post Gazette. An injunction was obtained against the action but Federal Judge Gourley deferred his decision pending compliance with his request that these papers go into the state supreme court first. This court will hear the case next week.

The Association reviewed other aspects of the case and requested Judge Alexander C. Flick to withdraw his ban on picture taking. The protest said, "We feel that your order abridges the right of the public to have access to a full news report."

But Judge Flick was unmoved by the protest and press cameras have been kept out of the court room, which is as it should be in this day of flash pictures. As for pictures in other parts of the court house, that is something that will come with time as we learn to adjust ourselves to this new medium.

We also believe that the taking of pictures within the court room will become a reality soon. This is assuming that the newspapers will equip themselves with cameras that can take pictures without disturbing the decorum of the court room. This can be done by some of us even now, but out of respect to others we have not raised this point.

Proof that this would not be objectionable is the fact that Judge Flick is allowing the Warren Times Mirror to have a cartoonist present who sketches pictures of the court scenes and of the principals involved. Obviously these people know they are being sketched and if such knowledge is disturbing they are not being helped by the artist's pen.

But apparently it is the flashing of bulbs that is objectionable and not the potential posing. In which case no doubt there are good cameramen with quality equipment who would like to prove that they can handle themselves as decorously as they who either buy or specialize in caricature.

Heart Victims Take Heart

A news release from the Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals contains good news for those who suffer from cardiac troubles and sometimes are known as cardiac cripples. The story concerns a Warren county business leader who has returned to his work after undergoing this rare surgery.

The operation is popularly known as the talcum powder heart operation and is technically called a cardiopexy. The Warren county patient first suffered severe pains in his shoulder in 1942, and became serious in 1943. Since his operation this spring this shoulder has been free of pain and he again is about his business and civic activities.

The operation was perfected by Dr. Samuel A. Thompson of the New York Medical College, and is a simple one. It consists of inserting powdered silica into the heart sac. The silica clings permanently to the tissues of the sac, but since it is sterile it does no harm. However, it is a foreign agent and stimulates the flow of blood to the heart.

The operation does not give the patient a new heart but has proved effective in helping persons with angina, coronary occlusion, rheumatic heart, and hypertensive heart (known as high blood pressure).

Such steps should be encouraging to those who are asked to give, month after month, as drive follows drive. Despite our bungling method of raising research funds, we are making progress. What we really could do with a billion or two of that we spend to develop new methods of killing!!

French Lose Prestige

When a powerful nation, like France, sits calmly by and allows a garrison of men to die defending Dien Bien Phu, a spot it claims had no military value, there is reason for suspicion. Why this sacrifice?

France is supposed to be one of the Major Powers. As such it must command enough manpower to save the lives of 5,000 soldiers. If the geography of the battle was lacking in value, certainly the lives of those who died there were worthy of an all-out try.

If this thing had happened in a few days we might say there was no time for relief to arrive. But this siege was dragged on for months, and for all to see. All the world, in fact, and that is what makes us wonder why it occurred.

Was this an effort to arouse the free people of the world so that their governments could safely use it as an excuse for sending military help? If so, it fell on its face. Americans, at least, are not anxious to send their boys to Asia.

This dramatic incident was a little overdone. While the French pointed with fierce pride at this gallant stand they also were suggesting that it was not of major significance and was only there to take a heavy toll of enemy lives.

If there is anything the Chinese and their cohorts have in Asia it is men. They come very cheap. They may not have equipment nor the means of making fancy weapons, but they do have men . . . men to waste, a practice at which they apparently are very adept, if the news reports of the Korean and Indo-China battles are correct.

This Dien Bien Phu affair has not warmed our feelings toward the French. It certainly has reduced our estimate of French leadership. France looks like a very small member of the so-called Big Four, a member which would enjoy having us pull its . . . chestnuts out of the fire, though it must go through the act of diplomatic gestures deplored such a thought.

PROSECUTION WEAVES STRONG CASE TO SUBSTANTIATE PREMEDITATION

A long list of commonwealth witnesses this week piled up evidence against Norman Moon, charged with the murder of Judge Allison D. Wade, January 13. Starting Monday, soon after the last of the jurors had been chosen, they rapidly tied together evidence that Moon was in the court room, owned and fired the gun that killed Judge Wade, spoke threateningly to the Judge, heard the Judge plead with his killer, and revealed Moon had bought the gun for the admitted purpose of killing Judge Wade and Harold Hampson, attorney for Mrs. Moon.

Proof that Moon was in the court room was provided by Prothonotary Ralph Sires, District Attorney Meyer Kornreich, Attorney Harold Hampson, Court Reporter Bernice Seavy, and Dr. John E. Thompson, present for another case. Others had seen Moon in court that morning but were not present when the shooting occurred.

Evidence that Moon pulled a gun and fired it has been provided by Sires, Seavy, Hampson, Kornreich, and Thompson. Though most of them sought shelter and did not see the actual killing, Mrs. Seavy has testified that she saw Moon shoot Judge Wade.

Ballistic Expert Sgt. Edward Crowthers said the bullets found in the court room, that extracted from the deceased, and the empty shells found in the court room and at the scene of the capture were fired from the revolver with which Moon was armed when he was pursued by state police and with which he shot himself.

His actions immediately after the shooting were clearly described by Attorney Samuel Bonavita who accosted Moon as he started to enter his car to escape. As reported here before, Moon told Bonavita to leave him alone or he would shoot him. He also evidenced his willingness to fight it out with state police who showed up at that time but did not fire at them when they failed to notice him and entered the court house in answer to the many calls which followed the shooting.

State police and Bonavita testified concerning the chase west of Warren and Moon's refusal to stop. He finally left the highway after a tire had been shot out. He then shot himself through the neck, the bullet coming out of his face in front of the ear.

Moon's intention to kill the judge, and Hampson was learned in interviews by Sergeant John Mehalick, Sergeant Charles C. Naddeo, and others who attended him at the hospital. A gun salesman in Pittsburgh also testified that he had sold the revolver to Moon the day before the shooting. This man still is facing a charge of selling a gun without the necessary waiting period.

Little of the evidence was new to the public which has followed the accounts in the papers and on the radio. But it added up to a strong case of premeditated murder as presented by the commonwealth lawyers, David Kohn and Harrington Adams.

It now is for the defense to develop its side and most court followers believe this will consist of many character witnesses and possibly an effort to prove that Moon was temporarily insane, due to a series of personal relationships and what he considered a highly unjust handling of his problems by the courts.

The fact that defense lawyers, Samuel D. Braemer and Thomas A. Waggoner, did not ask for a change of venue, but chose to have their client tried in the very room where he allegedly committed the crime, suggests they may believe more sympathy and understanding is to be found in Warren county, and that this may make it possible to gain a life sentence.

The first witnesses called by the defense on Wednesday were Moon's mother, and two brothers, Edward and Robert. The trend of the questioning by defense attorneys was an effort to reveal that Moon had been a quiet, well behaved boy and that he had become disconsolate after his unsuccessful marriage. Mrs. Moon testified that he had threatened to kill himself and that she had found a revolver in his room which she hid.

One brother testified that Moon had a $1500 check on his person when he visited Warren on January 13, but that he mailed it home in an envelope postmarked 11:30 that morning. This suggests that Moon was confused, attending court also with the thought of making his back payments as ordered by the court. This could figure in later temporary insanity pleas.

Two key witnesses expected are the defendant and a psychiatrist. The commonwealth also is apt to use a psychiatrist in rebuttal.

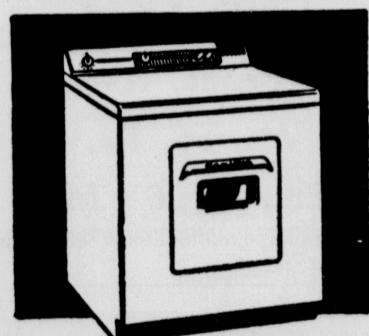

Other relatives and more character background is expected today. The number of these witnesses and the extent of the cross-examination will determine the length of the trial, but the jury probably will have it within two or three days, barring sensational developments.

Whatever the line of approach and the evidence presented it soon will be up to those twelve jurors who were chosen only after a full

HE SAW ENOUGH. Dr. John E. Thompson, of Youngsville, was in court on other business the morning of January 13. He saw Norman Moon rise from a front seat of the court room, draw a gun, and fire three times toward the area where Judge Wade, Attorneys Hampson and Kornreich, and court attaches were standing or sitting. At this point he ducked under a bench, surmising that Moon was spraying bullets at everyone in sight. His graphic description of what transpired helped build up the strength of the commonwealth's case.

EYE WITNESS. The most damaging evidence provided by the commonwealth in the case of Norman Moon, charged with the murder of Judge Allison D. Wade, was the testimony of Mrs. Bernice Seavy, who served as court reporter under Judge Wade. She not only substantiated the fact that Moon was present on the morning of January 13, and that he fired in the direction of the bench, but she also said that she saw Moon fire the shot which probably killed the jurist as he lay helpless on the floor. — Photo by Stokes

DAMAGING EVIDENCE. Prothonotary Ralph Sires was present the morning of January 13 when Judge Allison D. Wade was killed. He saw Norman Moon in the court room, saw him come to the gateway leading to the working area of the room, and saw him shoot. Inasmuch as Mr. Sires was in the direct line of fire, he ducked under his desk. He overheard some of the conversation which transpired between the jurist and Moon as the doomed man attempted to talk his assailant out of his apparent intent to kill.
